THE CHALLENGE OF "43"

The days slipped quickly onward,
The busy months flew fast;
Six full years of wonder
Swept like a whirlwind past.

We're coming now, "Old Glory,"
We're coming to your aid,
We're coming marching faster,
So your honor will not fade.

We'll be the fighting soldiers,
Keepers of liberty.
We'll fight our best for freedom
Unto eternity.

Mold our learning into bullets,
Our knowledge into guns;
For we must fight with vengeance,
So the battle can be won.

Youth marches firmly onward,
Not bearing death and sorrow.
But filled with dreams and courage,
The builders of tomorrow.

The Class of '43 occupies a most unusual position among the graduating classes of our school. Challenging forces are great and opportunities exceed by far those of any period that the school will probably ever experience. The members of the Class will not be found lacking in courage, enthusiasm and ability to face the intricate problems that lie ahead.

May you be worthy of the best that life has to offer. Give freely of yourselves to those ideals and aspirations which will insure a more just and peaceful world.

The contents of this book dedicated to "Our Boys in the Armed Forces of the United States" should be a real inspiration to all and a constantly beckoning light to encourage and guide you safely on your way.

JAMES S. COLLINS,
Principal.

Band

One of the most outstanding musical organizations at North is the High School Band. Under its able director, Miss Ruth Christman, the band offered an unusual patriotic presentation in both music and formations at our local football games.

Many assemblies were made more interesting by the presence and music of the school band, which all led up to the musical climax of the year—the Annual Band Concert. The Senior Band, in cooperation with the Junior Band and Quincy High School Band, presented one of the finest musical entertainments of the season at this concert. Due to war conditions, the annual festivals were called off, but nevertheless, the Quincy Schools had their own festival at which our Band proved highly successful.

The officers of this active organization are: Herbert Olson, president; Frank MacGowan, vice-president; Warren Watson, treasurer; Gerard Schaefer, business manager.

A great deal of the Band's success is due to our snappy drum major, Barbara Doyle, and the five drum majorettes: Joan Baines, Natalie Fisher, Irene Collins, Phyllis Ericson, and Barbara Pickles.

Glee Club

North's Glee Club in 1943 was one of the largest and best ever. It was, as usual, under the skillful direction of our Miss Ruth Christman. War caused the cessation of State and New England Festivals, but to continue their good work, Quincy held its own Festival. Each musical organization was marked on ability, quality, tone and interpretation. The Glee Club introduced a brand new patriotic song, "Fight for America," by Sayward F. Rowell, at a special assembly. The Ensemble joined with the Glee Club to make this presentation a success. Their Christmas Concert this year, aided by the Ensemble, gave a representation of Christmas customs in the lands of our Allies. Some members assisted the Wollaston Glee Club in their final concert. Officers for 1943 were: President, Norman Chase; Vice-President, Phyllis Thomas; Secretary, Phyllis Henueke; Treasurer, Margaret Field; Business Manager, William MacDonald.

String Ensemble

The String Ensemble, under the direction of Miss Ruth Christman, had a very successful year in spite of the changes caused by the war. As the All-State and New England Festivals were cancelled, Quincy held its own Festival. North's Ensemble was one of the many Junior and Senior musical groups which participated. They assisted the Glee Club in a special assembly given for the benefit of North's student body. At this assembly the first public performance of the patriotic song, "Fight for America," by Sayward F. Rowell, was given and enthusiastically received. The Ensemble also assisted the Glee Club at their Christmas Concert. They played at various Woman's Club Concerts, where their efforts were greatly appreciated. The officers for 1943 were: President, Shirley Knight; Vice-President, Lillian Hayes; Secretary, Virginia Berry; Treasurer, Nancy Mercer; Business Manager, Evelyn Hayes.

Senior Student Council

The Senior Student Council, now under the capable guidance of Mr. Noyes, is an organization of North's student-representatives, selected every spring by popular election. The Council sponsors many activities during its administration. Among those, the most successful in 1942-1943 were the annual elections, the Round Table Conferences, the drive to augment the sale of stamps and bonds, the record "hops" in the afternoons instead of dances in the evenings, the "News from North" column in the "Ledger," and the sports rallies. In fact, all sorts of pupil activities originate with the Council. The members are as follows: Grade 12—Warren Watson, president; Drusilla West, vice-president; John Anthony, treasurer; Frank McGowan, Jean Mullin, and Shirley Wallace; Grade 11—Theodosia Dusopol, Jean Ayres, secretary; Eileen O'Hearn, Sybil Friedland, Lloyd Crowther, Ellis Quimby; Grade 10—Fred Roach, George Doherty, Barbara Rich, Charles Leveroni, Louisa Reeks, and Shirley Tolan.

Student Secretarial and Clerical Staff

Keeping in mind the objective that commercial education, to be effective, must be practical, the Commercial Department assigns its pupils as clerical assistants to teachers, department heads, and the school office.

These pupils perform practical stenographic and clerical duties of the following nature:

1. Taking dictation and transcribing.
2. Making duplicate copies on the Mimeograph and Ditto.
3. Filing cards and preparing daily lists of pupil absentees for the office.

Accurate ratings are kept for each pupil, based upon reports of teachers in the department and the teachers for whom pupils do individual work. These records are available for use by the Counseling Organization when pupils are recommended for positions.

Traffic Squad

The largest and most outstanding service organization at North is the Traffic Squad. Its members are chosen for character and scholarship with service as their aim. Each floor has not only a captain but also a faculty advisor. Thus, with this combination of factors, efficiency is inevitable. Red and black badges show the authority of the proud members who are sentinels within this School.

Cafeteria Squad

The Cafeteria Squad at North is made up of pupils in both junior and senior high school. This organization was started by Mr. McDonald and Mr. Wilson is now the advisor. Under the leadership of Frank McGowan, the group has charge of organizing the home rooms, which are responsible for keeping the Cafeteria clean for one month each. The members of the group are also in general charge in the Cafeteria during their respective lunch periods.

Last fall the Squad visited the Hingham High School, where they met with the Hingham Cafeteria Squad and described the cafeteria organization here at North. Later the Hingham Squad visited here to see the plan in action.

The lunch periods for all at North are made more pleasant through the efforts of this organization.

The Junior Class

This year the Junior Class under the energetic leadership of Thomas Meade, President, Irene Collins, Vice-President, and Helen Orcutt, Secretary, has had a fine and successful year. This group of enterprising young people planned and carried out, under the guidance of Miss Fagerland, one of the best dances of the year. The officers of the Class have been very active and helpful in student affairs and the membership of the Class has been well represented in student activities, student government, athletics, musical units, and social activities. Great things are expected of the Class of 1944 in their senior year.

Library Staff

The Library Staff is one of the most important service organizations here at North. Under the direction of Miss Sherman, it not only offers an opportunity to serve the School but also gives opportunity for social life. This year, for instance, our staff sponsored a Library Conference with representatives from the other school staffs attending. This year's officers include Barbara Ryder, president; Louise Cluett, vice-president; Anne Carmichel, secretary; and Jenny Malmberg, treasurer.

Manet Staff

The Manet Staff is that hardworking group which is responsible for this Yearbook. This year, as in the past, the Staff was divided into various groups, creative writing, write-ups, typing, compiling, advertising, and art work. Mr. Coolidge was the faculty advisor, while Miss Meisner and Miss Palmer supervised the work of the literary staff. Walter Montgomery was General Chairman of the Staff, and Donald Chadwick was Chairman of the Advertising Committee.

The Motion Picture Operators Club

The Motion Picture Operators Club is composed of a group of boys interested in the technique of the projector. This Club, under the direction of Mr. Forest, is composed of about thirty-five boys. These boys show educational films for teachers, and entertaining films in the auditorium for the pupils.

Social Studies Staff

Started last year, the Social Studies Staff has earned its place as one of the service organizations here at North. About forty-five volunteer workers man "301" all hours of the day. Their job is to help students looking for books, pamphlets, and information on the social studies. Under the direction of Miss Pratt and Mr. Noyes and the chairmanship of Maude Means, Virginia Lewis, Emily MacRae, Sheila Williams, and Gloria Fee, the staff has developed a smooth working organization which renders a much needed service to the School.

National Honor Society

Colleges may have their sororities and their fraternities, but North goes a step ahead with its National Honor Society. This was sponsored by Mr. MacDonald until he was transferred to Quincy High, whereupon Miss Horrigan became supervisor. The organization, a new but rapidly growing one at North, includes both boys and girls—any students who meet the necessary requirements. What are these qualifications? The pupil should be continuously striving to develop his character; to maintain high scholarship; to give generously of his services to the School; and to lead his fellow associates on to greater heights. Each May there is an impressive induction ceremony by which the new candidates receive their membership cards and pins, preparatory to meeting those standards set by their proud predecessors.

The Bowling Club

The Bowling Club is made up of approximately 150 boys and girls under the supervision of Mr. J. Silvia. This Club meets every Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday afternoon at the Norfolk Bowling Alley. The war situation has caused all extra activities to be cancelled for the duration.

WELFARE WORK:

We girls certainly had a successful year. We sent money and clothes to Russia; money to China and Greece; Thanksgiving and Christmas contributions to the Family Welfare and Red Cross; clothes to Tuskegee Institute and stuffed dolls and animals to the British. In addition, we sold six hundred War Stamps at the "Fun for Guns" show.

SOCIAL AFFAIRS:

We shall never forget Initiation Day, the weenie roast at Squantum, the "Fun for Guns" show, the Christmas party and Assembly, and the party in the gym. We shall remember these activities also: three assemblies with selected speakers on Personality, Clothes, and General Interests; our Mother's Tea and Style Show and our Annual Dance. We do get around, don't we?

Tri-Hi- Y

Hi-Y

Under the guidance of Mr. James Hardy of the Y. M. C. A., the Hi-Y Club enjoyed another successful year at North. As usual this well-known service organization helped at Thanksgiving and Christmas time. Business meetings were held in the School, and meetings at the "Y" proved to be both interesting, educational, and sociable.

Several of the members attended the Hi-Y conference at Springfield last fall and gained a great deal which was brought back to the group. These ideas helped the organization and officers of "42" and "43." The officers were Jack Hendrick, president; Bob Lawrence, vice-president; Walter Montgomery, secretary and John Randolph, treasurer.

The Prom Committee

The Prom Committee, under the leadership of Mr. Foy, gave us one of the finest Senior Proms that any class at North has ever had. Jo Birmingham and her committee arranged for the patriotic decoration of the Armory. Jack Hendrick was able to secure the fine orchestra of Andy Jacobson, whose music was enjoyed greatly all evening. The hall was in the charge of Alice McWeeny, and all was in readiness for the big event when the night of February 26 came. The invitations were handled by Jean Fratus and Allen Miller, while Herby Olson and Ted Moynahan got out the programs. Jean Mullin took care of the invited guests and organized the receiving line. Gloria Richmond handled the publicity; and Gene Kelly gathered the class dues so we could make the Prom not only a social but a financial success. Corinne LeBlanc and Walter Montgomery did the general worrying as they helped the other members of the committee. These people all contributed to making the Prom the success it was.

The Tri-Hi-Y-Club

The Tri-Hi-Y Club, one of the outstanding organizations at North, has enjoyed another successful year. Miss Frances Allbright and Mr. James Hardy, directors of the Club, were assisted by Janet Fratus, president, Grace Madden, vice-president, Shirley Wallace, secretary, and Virginia Whipple, treasurer. Meetings were held weekly alternating at the School and the Quincy Y. M. C. A.

The most outstanding event of the year was the "Mother's Night," at which much talent was displayed. Many interesting and worthwhile talks were given and parties were held with other Hi-Y's.

Football

This fall another North Quincy High football team took the field with the same spirit and courage so characteristic of North teams in the past. Although winning only one game out of eight, the North gridders provided many thrill-packed contests for their throng of loyal supporters, and throughout the season displayed the fair play and good sportsmanship of all Donahue-coached elevens.

After downing a scrappy Milton High aggregation, the Red and Black warriors gave three exhibitions of hard-fought, nerve-tingling football against Dedham, Framingham, and Quincy. Probably the most thrilling tilt was the hectic Framingham game in which Don Jeffries, Gene Reilly, and Bill Longridge shared the scoring honors for a losing cause. In the Quincy game, long passes and long runs proved fatal, but not until the final whistle was blown did the Northenders succumb to their arch rivals.

This year graduation will take a heavy toll, as eight of the eleven boys who started the Quincy game are graduating along with many others. Gene Reilly, who developed into an exceptional punter; Bob Driscoll, who passed, kicked, blocked, and ran; Bill Longridge, a bone-crushing fullback; and Jim Moodie, an able field-general, made up this year's backfield along with one hundred and twenty-two pounds of dynamite in the person of sophomore Danny Dunlop. Art Jackman, a rangy junior, and Don Jeffries, who alternated with Johnny Creedon, were the flankmen. The tackle positions were capably filled by three husky seniors, Johnny Randolph, Bob "Truck" Lawrence, and "Tubby" Williams. Captain Jack Hendrick and Guy Capilli completed the frontal wall. While Capilli stood out for his fine defensive work, Hendrick shone as a devastating blocker and a competent leader. John Granahan, Tom Fitzgerald, and Jack Gallagher alternated at center, and did their jobs well both defensively and offensively.

Seniors Johnny McAdams, "Duke" Goldberg, Bill Cataldo, and Larry Reid, all played their best when called upon, while Manager Bill Mansfield performed his duties faithfully throughout the season.

Cheer Leaders

Do you realize who was responsible for all the cheering done at all our football games? Why, of course, it was the Cheerleaders! Those seven peppy leaders certainly knew how to bring out the traditional North spirit in true form. The football games and numerous "roof raising" rallies were planned and directed very successfully by—Keenie Le Blanc, who had been on the "pep" squad three years; Shirley Wallace, who had been on two years; Jackie Le Bert, Lorraine Treco, Frannie Campbell, Norma Carlson, and, not to forget the "man" of the squad, Freddie Di Carlo—who were chosen by Mr. Forest and Mr. West this year. Under Mr. Forest's direction they performed tumbling acts rivaling those of any other such group. Some very successful new cheers, developed after many hours of brain-racking, were presented to the students. Two other members—rather young ones—made their appearance on Thanksgiving Day. Patty Martin and Ann Killory were two adorable but lively "future" cheerleaders. Whether the team was winning or losing, North's followers supported their team under the leadership of these sparkling pepsters who directed the noise.

Intramural Basketball

Varsity basketball was banned at North this year, but in its place was substituted intra mural basketball under the direction and guidance of Mr. Rogers. The gym was given to the boys of the high school three nights a week. A league of eight teams, each built around one former varsity basketball player, was formed. The schedule was formed by Mr. Rogers with the help of his student manager, Larry Reid.

The league swung into action, and rivalry among the teams soon sprang up. The games, which were filled with action and upsets, were refereed by Neil MacDonald. The league was just developing into husky youthhood when the long Christmas vacation arrived. After the vacation several attempts were made to start the league again but too many of the boys had obtained jobs.

However, the boys still interested in basketball had the gym to work out in. Each night teams were chosen and the boys, who were mostly former varsity members, played under Mr. Roger's direction. As time passed and the boys developed, an added incentive loomed on the horizon in the shape of Quincy High. Several attempts were made to schedule a game between the schools. The game was finally arranged and a week was spent in polishing off the teams. The day of the big game started off in an impressive manner when North's jay-vees made up of sophomores defeated Quincy's second team. The team worked as a well-oiled unit and, playing their usual steady ball, were never in serious danger.

However, the game amongst the older boys proved the highlight of this year's basketball. The teams, made up of the boys who probably would have represented their school in varsity basketball, battled to an exciting and nerve-breaking tie. Led by the shooting of "Buster" Seager, North jumped into an early lead. The game was close and in the closing minutes Quincy tied the score at 24 all. In the three-minute overtime both teams played cautious basketball and watched each other like cats waiting for an opening. The last few minutes were full of nerve-wracking basketball. Temper flared amongst the spectators in the heat of the contest and the end of the overtime still found the score tied. The game was then stopped and called an even contest. Intra mural basketball then continued for several more weeks and the boys played some interesting and exciting games amongst themselves to wind up the season.

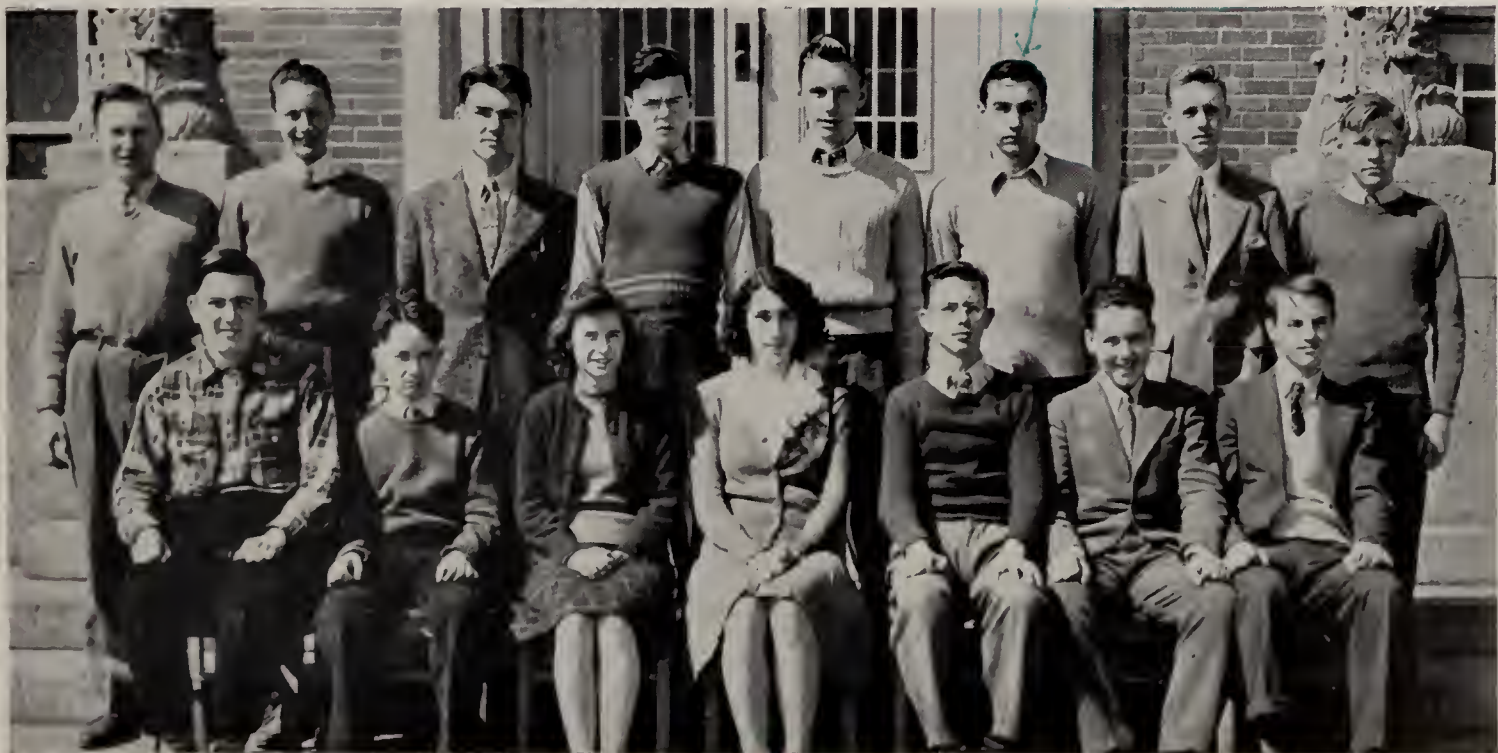

Rifle Club

One of the most instructive and interesting sport organizations at North is the Rifle Club whose meetings are held twice weekly under the able direction of Mr. Briggs, a newcomer to our faculty this year. The Club's president is Herbert Jacques and it has a membership of forty pupils. The Club uses the targets in the Quincy Grammar School and is very proud to have two teams entered in the William Randolph Hearst Tournament.

Brother Bob

Mr.

Intramural Boxing

For the first time in several years a boxing club has been started at North. This new activity is under the supervision of Mr. Rogers, who keeps the boys right on their toes at all times. There are several reasons for organizing this sport; first, the boys are interested, and second and most important, it's a great conditioner for the boys going into the armed forces or baseball and football.

You've all seen the boys in their jog around the front of the school. Well, that's only part of the conditioning. After that it's inside for a half-hour of body exercises designed to toughen and harden the boys. Then there is a short period of instruction and shadow boxing. After this comes the popular part of the afternoon, the actual fighting with gloves, although there are only two rounds of boxing to a bout, there have been a few bloody noses and cut lips. About thirty-five boys take part in this activity and all are gaining confidence in their ability to handle themselves.

The Horseback Riding Club

The Horseback Riding Club has long been one of the most popular activities at North. The members ride once a week in the spring and as far into the fall as the weather permits. The beginners are taught in a large dirt riding ring under the excellent instruction of Ferguson's Riding Stable, while the advance students canter along the beautiful trails of the Blue Hill Reservation.

Although the war makes it necessary for the Club to use bus and street car for their transportation, the inconvenience does not decrease the popularity of the sport.

Many of the girls take part and win prizes in the gymkhanas, trail rides, and other riding competitions given by the various stables and also give special shows among themselves. A weinie roast is held after a long trail ride to mark the closing of the season.

Through the Years

1937-1938

Once upon a time, as the story goes, there arrived on the premises of North Quincy High, a tribe of savage, noisy, vitamin-deficient seventh graders. Our I. Q. was probably deficient, too, but let's not get personal.

We were the ordinary group of seventh graders with the characteristic green notebooks, tin lunch boxes, and locks for our precious lockers. . . . Were you one of the bunch that had to have the lock sawed off after you left all the keys at home?

This year the girls learned the fine art of sewing (the only thing "fine" about it was the fact that it took up only two periods a week—P.S. that was enough), while the boys spent their time in the shop blithely sawing off their fingers and making plenty of noise.

There are lots of things we remember about this first year at North; for instance, the utter distaste we had for the fourth floor. It seemed to us the most congested spot on earth, and we were more than glad to return to our own "little madhouse" on the second floor where we could push around someone our own size. And, of course, we won't forget our music periods! Remember how we gazed open-mouthed as Miss C. did a "one-man" performance of The Mikado?

Oh, well, those days passed swiftly, and we soon found ourselves beaming happily (?) at our fourth quarter report cards which read: "Promoted to Grade 8."

1938-1939

Well, this was the year of that big wind (and I don't mean geography.) What I do mean is the Hurricane of '38, which supplied our wagging little tongues with talking material for weeks. Do you remember when so-and-so's Uncle Joe's barn blew over?—and so forth through the days.

Then, of course, we all remember our introduction to science this year. Weren't the electrons the wives of the protons?—or maybe I'm thinking of something else. Had the knowledge been the clouds, it couldn't have drifted over our heads more easily.

This year, we girls became conscious of the fact that "the way to a man's heart was through his stomach." So, clad in stylish white aprons, with headgear to match, we started the cooking course. But by the time the year was over, we knew more about how to empty and wash a garbage can than we did about cooking.

We yawned through group conferences trying to make up our minds what courses we would take in the Ninth Grade. Most of us, I'm sure, were going to be doctors, lawyers, and actresses, or else we were going to own "Ye Olde Nooke Tea Shoppe," or a night club with a little less revolting title. Oh, well, we were young and had to learn that lofty ambitions did not make lofty salaries.

This year seemed to roll by rather drowsily, with nothing more exciting than an occasional fire drill. Oh, how our childish minds wished that the school would burn down, but we were later to discover that nothing ever happens to schools.

By June, we had grown an inch (in body, not mind), and we all raced home, overjoyed, to tell our parents that we were now Ninth Graders.

1939-1940

At last, we could breathe a little easier, for we were the king pins of the Junior High. Some of the braver souls delved into Latin this year and discovered why it was called a dead language.

This year, the school system took pity on us and gave us community civics instead of economic civics, or which kind act, I'm sure we were all grateful.

But, were there ever so many long, dark, angry, rebellious faces as those of the Ninth Graders when they learned there was to be no Junior Prom? We thought of nothing short of murder to avenge this horrible crime. Weren't we going to run the School Committee out of the city on a rail?—or were we going to tar and feather them?—or both? Then there were those dozens of petitions that we all signed in vain to have our Prom. Remember?—or were you one of the "goody-goodies" who refused to take part in the mutiny?

Well, as June rolled around, it was announced that the Ninth Grade was to have an afternoon party to take the place of the Prom. Remember the cheerful responses that this news was greeted with? Now, now—this is not the place for profanity!

All in all, this was a pretty good year. We had some homework, but it was fairly light, nothing compared to the years to come! Besides, at that time, the wizards hadn't learned to be stingy with the right answers (they were to get that way the next year).

In June, we really felt senior-ish, with our own impressive graduation ceremonies, diplomas, and so forth. Ah—happy day! We swelled with pride at the thought of being full-fledged sophomores—but we were still pretty far from our ultimate but distant goal—the twelfth grade.

1940-1941

This year, we branched out even further. For instance, the college students had their choice of German, or French, the romance language. But, being as uncultured as we were, we failed to see anything romantic in it. Some of us struggled on with Caesar's Gallic Wars—P.S. we probably could have understood them better if they had been written in Greek. Then, too, plane geometry offered us the thrills of proving why a circle was round.

On the other hand, the bookkeeping students were carrying around enormous sheets of paper covered with numbers. They must have eventually used these for wallpaper.

And remember the romantic novels we read this year? How a gooey story like Lorna Doone ever became a classic is a mystery even the Lone Ranger couldn't solve.

This year, too, the North Star, our school newspaper, was introduced at North. It was an amazingly popular little paper, but, to everyone's disappointment, it didn't last very long.

Well, we staggered through a year studded with work and play. Finally, a little dazed, but a year older and wiser, we found ourselves approaching a more exalted position—the Eleventh Grade.

1941-1942

Ugh!! What a year this turned out to be!! Under the load of five majors and thirty pounds of books, the college preps really began to resemble the Hunchback of Notre Dame. Of course, half of the thirty pounds was used up by the U. S. Histories. Then, naturally, every teacher had the right to expect one hour's homework, but some of the kinder souls let us off with fifty minutes. It does sound like so much less than an hour!

All work and no play failed to make us dull, for there were numerous grand socials during the year that offered fun and thrills to all.

Then, remember the unique way we elected the senior class officers? The campaign posters, speeches, and secret ballots provided the exciting atmosphere of a real election.

The commercial students this year had a wonderful time showing off to the college preps by taking all their notes in shorthand. Of course, when they got home and had to translate those hieroglyphics—well, that was a different story!

There were many new changes this year; for instance, the air raid drills. They were accepted like assemblies; that is, "O.K." if they came during class periods, but cursed if they came during a study. Then, there was the Girls' Club initiation. What a shock for the boys when they saw what their best girls looked like in the rough!

The end of the year was as welcome as a "C" book, for we now realized that our tireless efforts were not in vain—we were finally seniors!

1942-1943

Our senior year, however, proved to be quite different from that of any previous senior class. Of course, we had the usual pictures, pins, and rings, but, because of the war, there were several things that we had to do without, such as the annual Class Play. However, there were gay spots, such as the Pigskin Ball. By the way, wasn't there a football game played with Weymouth that same afternoon? But let's not discuss technicalities!

This year, too, several classes had to be cut out, because of the lack of teachers.

Then there were the rationing periods! These were the nightmares of the faculty and the joy of the student body. After looking at the condition of some of the teachers after these periods, we just hope that aspirins are never rationed. By the way, while we're on the subject, don't you think the students with oil-heated homes should be given extra credit for doing their homework while wrapped in blankets or sitting on the stove? Oh, you don't? All right, just a suggestion!

The War Bonds and Stamps which were sold at the school this year not only lent money to Uncle Sam, but also added one more homeroom period to our list.—P.S. Why couldn't every day have seven periods?

In the middle of the year, new pre-induction courses were offered to the boys and some of the girls. Poetry and Shakespeare were put on the top shelf while these more practical courses took their place.

Then there was that extended Christmas vacation! Remember?—How could we forget! It gave us plenty of chance for loafing and leisure, and also a good excuse to forget everything taught to us before the vacation.

Our Prom this year took place in February so that the boys in the class who were going into the armed forces would have a chance to attend. Neither the snow nor the gas situation could clip the wings of the seniors as they stepped out in their stuffed shirts and fluffy organdy to enjoy the Senior Promenade.

With the work on the Yearbook and preparations for graduation, the year seemed to be drawing to a close. Six years at North has changed us from children to young men and women. Young men and women, who, with grim determination, are going forth to join the fight for freedom so that many more senior classes may have the same fun, education, privileges, and school spirit that we had at North Quincy High.

BETTE WHITE,
AUDREY WILLIAMS.

Class Will

Last Will and Testament of the Class of 1943 of the North Quincy High School, in the City of Quincy, County of Norfolk, and State of Massachusetts.

For six long years, we, the students of North Quincy High, have struggled through the courses offered us with the hope of achieving a road to success, and now, upon graduation, we do hereby declare this, our last will and testament.

ARTICLE I

As loyal supporters of the war effort, we do hereby give and bequeath to James S. Collins, as president of our plant, our most heartfelt thanks and appreciation for presiding so wisely over us during the past six years.

ARTICLE II

We give and bequeath to Vice-President Wilson, our most newly acquired official, one broom and dustpan with which to keep his spacious domain clean.

ARTICLE III

We give and bequeath to our energetic secretary, Miss Webstersmith, one large autographed picture of Charles Boyer.

ARTICLE IV

We give and bequeath to our illustrious superintendent, Mr. Frank Smoyer, one periscope with which to perceive the chattering young ladies in the back rows.

ARTICLE V

We give and bequeath to our dashing foreman, Mr. Howland, one senior class each day to compensate for the other five or six periods.

ARTICLE VI

We give and bequeath to our worthy assistant foreman, Mr. Walsh, one observation post, one telescope, and one book on "Know Your Planes," to lighten his daily task.

ARTICLE VII

We give and bequeath to Miss Rhinehardt, the riveter, after six long years of study in mathematics, one diploma in elementary math.

ARTICLE VIII

We give and bequeath to Mr. Donahue, our personnel manager, one bottle of smelling salts with which to revive the "Old North Spirit."

ARTICLE IX

We give and bequeath to Mr. Rogers, our able welder, one extra oil ration book, to enable him to keep his department warm on the brisk New England days.

ARTICLE X

We give and bequeath to Miss Hunt, our skilled pipe fitter, one tomahawk from the French and Indian War with which to scalp her inattentive pupils.

ARTICLE XI

We give and bequeath to our charming mechanic, Miss Horrigan, a ripple of hope that she will soon become a Wave.

ARTICLE XII

We give and bequeath to the incoming Class of '44, all privileges and rights belonging to a senior class of North Quincy High School, together with several large tanks with which to penetrate the seventh and eighth grade lunches.

Therefore, we, the Class of 1943, the party of the first part, do hereby set our seal to this, our Last Will and Testament, on this, the Fourth day of March, 1943.

ALLEN MILLER,
DAVID McKINNEL.

But the Best Jobs Go to the Best Prepared!

- Army and Navy men spend many months training for the work they must do. Be sure you are well prepared for your job on the home front!

When you choose Fisher School you are sure of secretarial training that brings out the best in you — that prepares you for a vital, well-paid position now, and a career with a future. Accelerated courses if you wish.

More than 2400 calls for Fisher graduates last year alone! Why not start July 5? Call or write for catalog.

Two convenient locations: BOSTON, 118 Beacon Street • SOMERVILLE, 374 Broadway

THE FISHER SCHOOLS

Of course you have a "dream-job" in mind!

• Perhaps you'd like to work with a world-famous commentator—be the personal secretary of a charming actress—or confidential assistant to a noted aircraft designer.

The shortest distance between that ambitious fancy and actual fact is Katharine Gibbs secretarial training. It is not mere coincidence that employers with unusual (and well-paid!) jobs to fill turn first to Katharine Gibbs—5533 such calls last year.

Katharine Gibbs practical courses for high school graduates, including background-building college subjects as well as thorough secretarial training, will open the door to the job in which you can do your best, now and when peace returns.

Courses begin July 6 and Sept. 21. Ask Entrance Committee for illustrated catalog.
